Dear Sir/Madam,

I am totally opposed to the National government handing over control of all water ways to Maori for them to govern.

Water comes from God and nobody has the right to have control over what falls from the sky.

The government of the day, elected by the people, have the right to have a say over what happens to water.

I can imagine a day when Maori charge us for every time we turn the tap on. I'm sure we all don't want that.

Kind Regards

Deborah Boswell (Mrs)
