A climate law like the Zero Carbon Act is important because...	We don't have the luxury of waiting, or choosing not to take action on climate change. I feel positive about the opportunities that will present themselves if we do this now, and fearful for the future of my daughter and any future family - if we do't' do something now. I don't want to be the generation that could have done something but chose not to for short term economic gain.
Long-term target	I support the most ambitious target of reducing total greenhouse gases to net zero by 2030. I also support taking a science-based approach to ensure our efforts to reduce emissions are as impactful as possible: we should aim for negative levels of long-lived gases, while reducing short-lived gases to sustainable levels. This target should be reached by reducing our own emissions and not by using international carbon credits.
Climate Commission	I support the establishment of an independent Climate Commission that is made up of experts and provides advice, but does not make final decisions.
Adaptation	I support a plan for adaptation being included in the Zero Carbon Act.
Climate justice	A Zero Carbon Act must be just and fair in that it honours Te Tiriti o Waitangi; ensures a just transition for workers and communities; and avoids passing on the costs to future generations.
