

Name	Dominic Wilson
Email
Phone
A climate law like the Zero Carbon Act is important because...	Without legislation, businesses are compelled to operate under the logic of pure capitalism - even with the best intentions, when it comes time for major decisions it will always be profit and efficiency first. Unless all business is required to operate on a level playing field, this won't change. We know that we need to change our practices, and we know that legislation is the best (only) way to make this happen.
Long-term target	I support the most ambitious target of reducing total greenhouse gases to net zero by 2050. I also support taking a science-based approach to ensure our efforts to reduce emissions are as impactful as possible: we should aim for negative levels of long-lived gases, while reducing short-lived gases to sustainable levels. This target should be reached by reducing our own emissions and not by using international carbon credits.
Climate Commission	I support the establishment of an independent Climate Commission that is made up of experts and provides advice, but does not make final decisions.
Adaptation	I support a plan for adaptation being included in the Zero Carbon Act.
Climate justice	A Zero Carbon Act must be just and fair in that it honours Te Tiriti o Waitangi; ensures a just transition for workers and communities; and avoids passing on the costs to future generations.
Further comments

The message has been sent from
Entry ID: 131

2018-06-11 07:51:34 on Chrome 66.0.3359.158