A climate law like the Zero Carbon Act is important because...	The age of fossil fuels is coming to an end, and needs to for everyones benefit. While New Zealand is a drop in the ocean globally we are respected globally and can take the opportunity to be ahead of the curve on this - to show that it can be done and that it can work. Cleaner air and a healthier environment is something that we should all aspire to and I believe this act would go the mile to make this happen.
Long-term target	I support the most ambitious target of reducing total greenhouse gases to net zero by 2050. I also support taking a science-based approach to ensure our efforts to reduce emissions are as impactful as possible: we should aim for negative levels of long-lived gases, while reducing short-lived gases to sustainable levels. This target should be reached by reducing our own emissions and not by using international carbon credits.
Climate Commission	I support the establishment of an independent Climate Commission that is made up of experts and provides advice, but does not make final decisions.
Adaptation	I support a plan for adaptation being included in the Zero Carbon Act.
Climate justice	A Zero Carbon Act must be just and fair in that it honours Te Tiriti o Waitangi; ensures a just transition for workers and communities; and avoids passing on the costs to future generations.
