

Name	Ian Logie
Email
A climate law like the Zero Carbon Act is important because...	It is a model proven to be successful in the UK. Given so much of the marketing of New Zealand's products and services attempts to position us as clean and green - in order to extract extra value and to compensate for how far we are from most major markets - it is important that we be a leader in climate responsibility rather than a laggard focused on the short-term $$$ effects. I want to be proud of New Zealand - not ashamed of it.
Long-term target	I support the most ambitious target of reducing total greenhouse gases to net zero by 2050. I also support taking a science-based approach to ensure our efforts to reduce emissions are as impactful as possible: we should aim for negative levels of long-lived gases, while reducing short-lived gases to sustainable levels. This target should be reached by reducing our own emissions and not by using international carbon credits.
Climate Commission	I support the establishment of an independent Climate Commission that is made up of experts and provides advice, but does not make final decisions.
Adaptation	I support a plan for adaptation being included in the Zero Carbon Act.
Climate justice	A Zero Carbon Act must be just and fair in that it honours Te Tiriti o Waitangi; ensures a just transition for workers and communities; and avoids passing on the costs to future generations.
Further comments	