

| | |
|---|---|
| Name | Cameron Bradley |
| Email | |
| | |
| A climate law like the Zero Carbon Act is important because... | The ultimate risk of destroying earth to the point where we can't survive is too great NOT to act. Giving our children, grandchildren and so forth a planet riddled with consequences from our selfish actions is not fair. New Zealand thrives on it's green reputation and we would do well economically to live up to that reputation (we are not currently). |
| Long-term target | I support the most ambitious target of reducing total greenhouse gases to net zero by 2050 or earlier. I also support taking a science-based approach to ensure our efforts to reduce emissions are as impactful as possible: we should aim for negative levels of long-lived gases, while reducing short-lived gases to sustainable levels. This target should be reached by reducing our own emissions and not by using international carbon credits. |
| Climate Commission | I support the establishment of an independent Climate Commission that is made up of experts and provides advice, but does not make final decisions. |
| Adaptation | I support a plan for adaptation being included in the Zero Carbon Act. |
| Climate justice | A Zero Carbon Act must be just and fair in that it honours Te Tiriti o Waitangi; ensures a just transition for workers and communities; and avoids passing on the costs to future generations. |
| Further comments | Our agriculture industry has too much of an impact on this (and other environmental problems) to ignore. However when it is so critical to our economy we must ensure there are measures in place to support those who will be hurt by any action taken to move away from agriculture. |