A climate law like the Zero Carbon Act is important because...

We need to do as much as we possibly can to contain and reduce the effects of climate change both natural and man-made. The lives of our children and those beyond depend on lessening the harm that human appetites cause in the destruction of animal and plant life on earth.

Long-term target

I support the most ambitious target of reducing total greenhouse gases to net zero by 2050. I also support taking a science-based approach to ensure our efforts to reduce emissions are as effective as possible: we should aim for negative levels of long-lived gases, while reducing short-lived gases to sustainable levels. This target should be reached by reducing our own emissions and not by using international carbon credits.

Climate Commission

I support the establishment of an independent Climate Commission that is made up of experts and provides advice, but does not make final decisions.

Adaptation

I support a plan for adaptation being included in the Zero Carbon Act.

Climate justice

A Zero Carbon Act must be just and fair in that it honours Te Tiriti o Waitangi; ensures a just transition for workers and communities; and avoids passing on the costs to future generations.

Further comments

We will need the wisest counsel available to effectively lay out for the general public the actual, fact-based effects of doing little or nothing AS WELL AS practical steps that individuals can take as participants in the processes of reducing the damage we all do.
