Submission to the New Zealand Government on Climate Change

Please accept the following submission on the Climate Change.

For many years New Zealand has been making billions of dollars out if the carefully cultivated 'clean, green' image.

Such words cost nothing, but those words will only have substance if the government takes action rather than indulging, as it has so far, in rhetorical window-dressing.

The government’s actions so far show that it is more concerned with short term appearances than with the long term climate disaster that threatens us.

Please consider the future of our children and grandchildren.

Martin Hanson